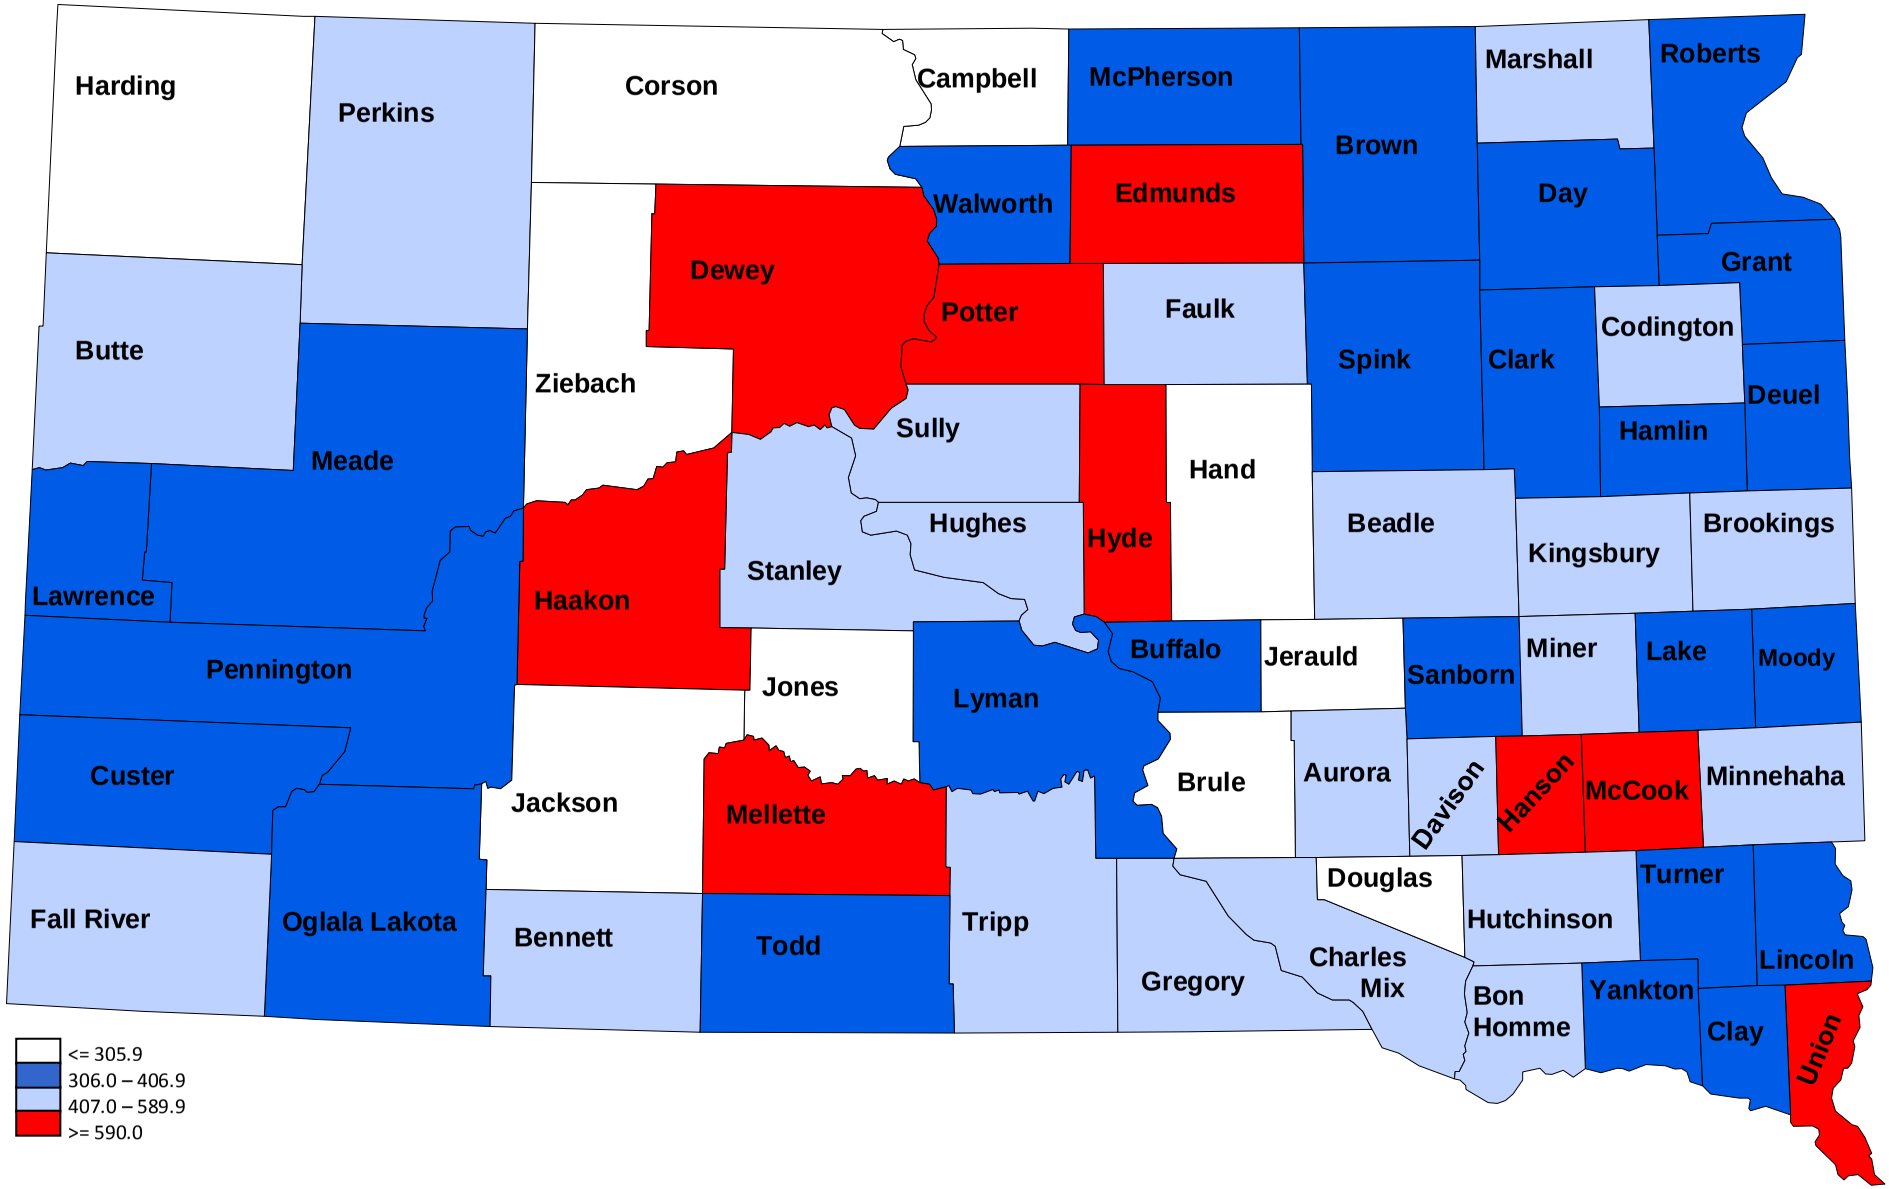
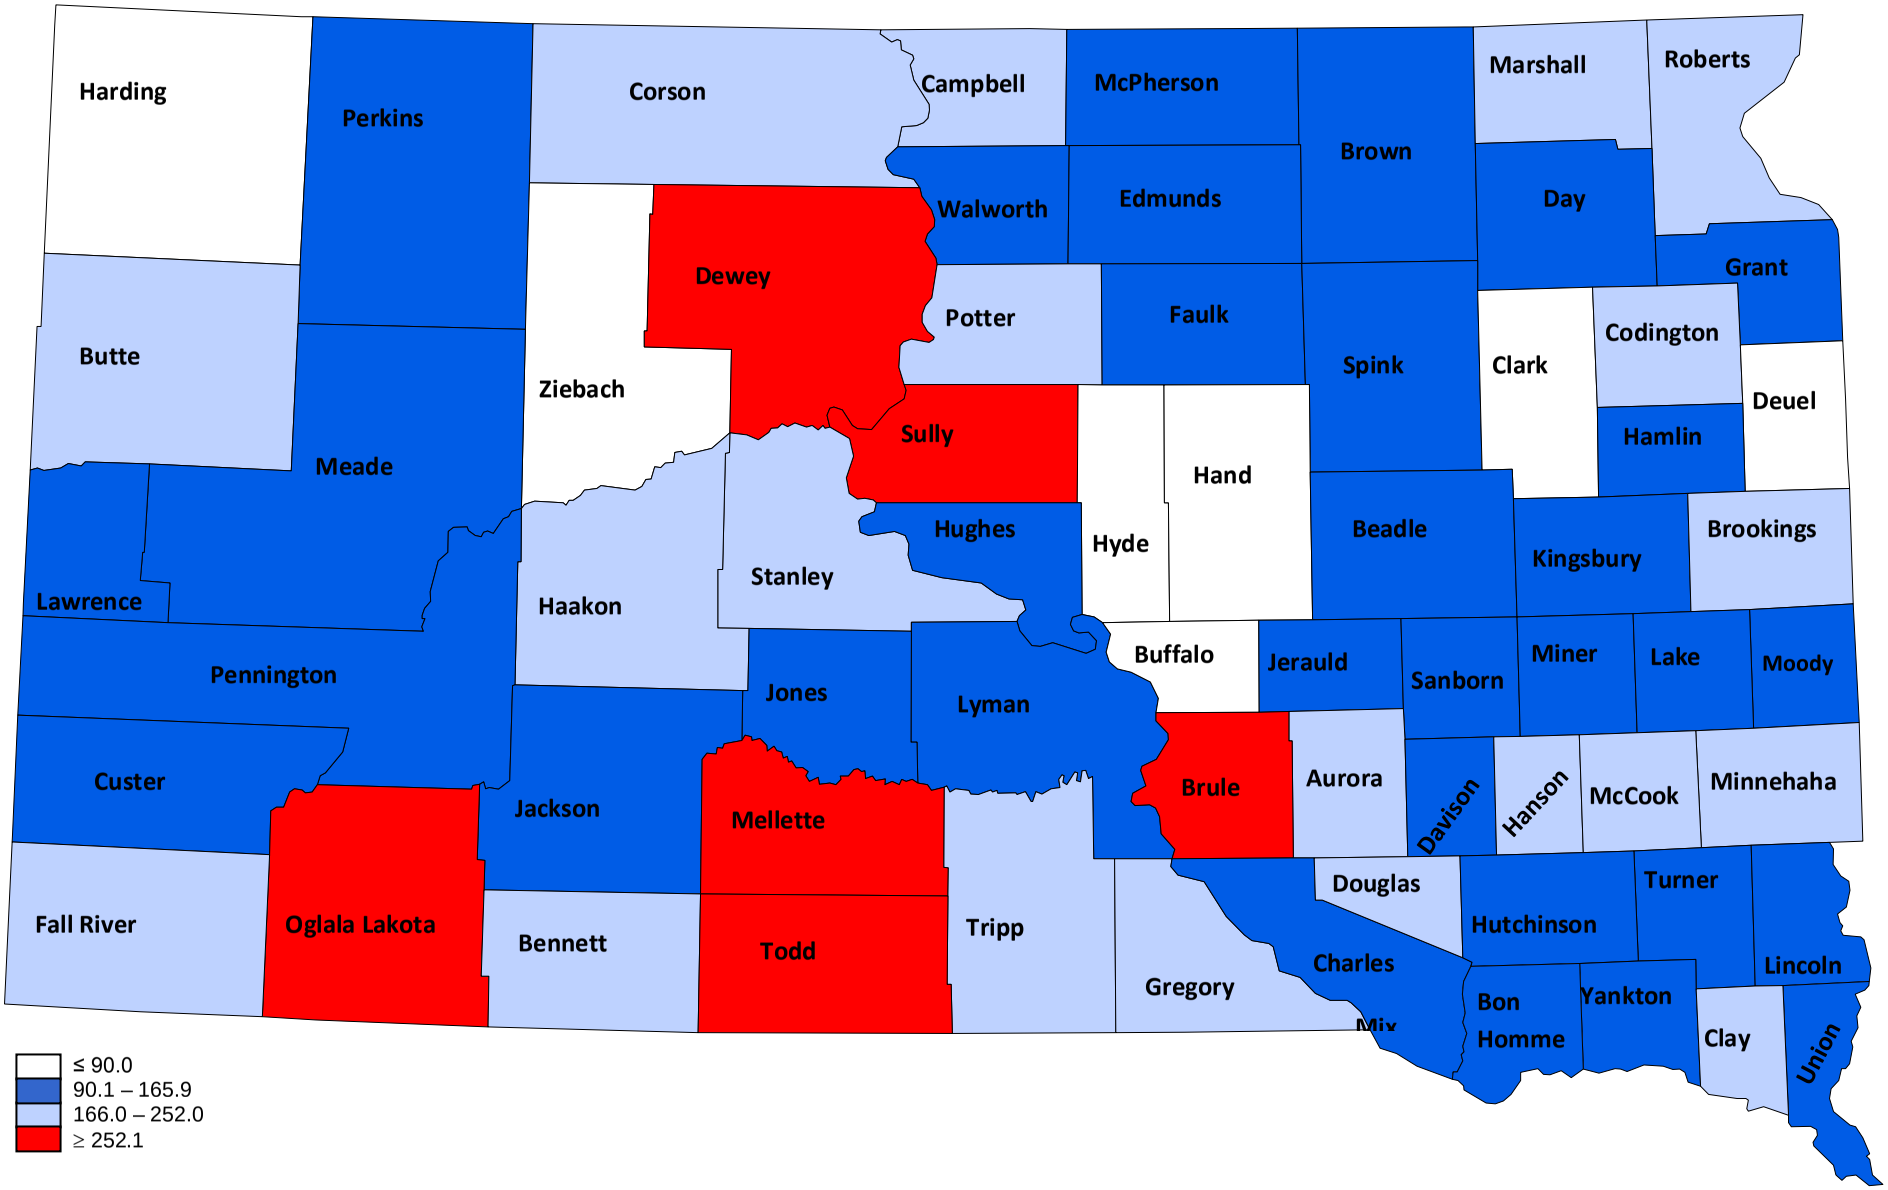
Figure 3: Cancer Incidence Rates by County, South Dakota, 2012



Note: Rates per 100,000 age-adjusted to 2000 US standard population and 2012 SD estimated population. Source: South Dakota Department of Health

South Dakota has an area of 77,121 square miles with a 2012 estimated population of 833,359 persons resulting in a population density of 10.7 persons per square mile. Population densities range from a low of 0.5 in Harding County to a high of 210.0 persons per square mile in Minnehaha County.

Figure 4: Cancer Mortality Rates by County, South Dakota, 2012



Note: Rates per 100,000 age-adjusted to 2000 US standard population and 2012 SD estimated population. Source: South Dakota Department of Health

South Dakota has an area of 77,121 square miles with a 2012 estimated population of 833,359 persons resulting in a population density of 10.7 persons per square mile. Population densities range from a low of 0.5 in Harding County to a high of 210.0 persons per square mile in Minnehaha County.